H. Peter Karoff is chairman and founder of The Philanthropic Initiative (TPI), a nonprofit organization founded in 1989 that promotes philanthropy. The Philanthropic Initiative (TPI) helps donors increase the impact of their philanthropy and at the same time makes "giving" more meaningful in their own lives. President of TPI from 1989 to 2002, he is a senior fellow at the College of Citizenship and Public Service at Tufts University.

Peter frequently speaks and writes, on philanthropic and social issues and is the author of The World We Want – new dimensions in philanthropy and social change, (AltaMira Press - 2007) and editor of Just Money – A Critique of Contemporary American Philanthropy, (TPI Editions - 2004.) Peter’s poetry has been published and anthologized. A graduate of Brandeis University (1959), Peter earned an MFA from Columbia University (1988), and received an Honorary Degree Doctor of Humane Letters from Lesley University (2002). He was made a Fellow of the McDowell Colony in 1989 and in 2006 became a Purpose Prize Fellow.
