International & Local NGO response to HIV/AIDS in South Africa
Sophie Cheetham works on the social and economic impact of HIV/AIDS on children and young adults in South Africa. She is a graduate of the University of Leeds, England, in the field of International Development and has conducted field research in South Africa on HIV/AIDS education. In January she completed work with an assistance program in the Cape winelands district, which provides care and assistance for those living with HIV/AIDS in the rural as well as urban areas of Cape Town, specifically children and young adults. While with the Orfalea Center, Sophie has been completing a written report on the South African HIV/AIDS assistance project. She will present some of her findings and personal experiences at this talk.
